

Take part in our

NDIS audit

with HDAA

and have your say.

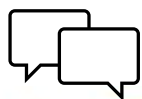

As part of the National Disability Insurance Scheme or the NDIS, we must undergo an external Audit so that we can provide supports and services.

This means assessors from a company called HDAA come to talk to our staff, and look at the work we do and the services we provide to support people.

The assessors would also like to talk to you to see if you're happy with the support and services we provide you.

If you prefer, you can also talk to the assessors with a person you choose to be there to support you.

The assessors would like to look at files that we keep which include information about you. This is so the assessors can see the type of supports we provide you.

The assessors write a report about our services which goes to the NDIS Commission, but no personal information about you is included in the report.

No thanks

If you don't want to talk to the assessors or have them look at your files that's OK, you don't have to. Talk to us about opting out.

You can talk to us if you need more information.
